

MERRY FIGHT IS ON

Grand Rapids and Detroit Wheelmen Revive Old Grudges.

HISTORY OF THE IMBROGLIO

State League Election Is Now in Progress—The Independent Ticket a Local Favorite.

The proverb, "There are none so blind as those who won't see," seems to be applicable to some of the wheelmen in this city just now. It is the fact that C. G. Steele has held office under Chief Constable Bierler, one or two of the most prominent wheelmen in the city still continuing to argue that he will favor Grand Rapids more than H. J. Gute will, because he does not live in Detroit. There is a little story in connection with the former's nomination which has not yet been made public, or at least it has not passed outside the circle of the "initiated." Last summer when the division officers met in this city, local wheelmen took occasion to charge Joseph Bierler with incompetency in attending to the affairs of the state organization, and stated that if the present annual meeting were to run again, A. B. Richmond of this city would again take the field against him. This stirred up the Detroit end of the division and a council of war was held to decide upon a course of action to keep the balance of power in that city, as they feared that Grand Rapids would again gain control of the state because of Bierler's weak and vacillating movements. There was no man in Detroit whom they could decide upon to carry their colors and represent them in their last of favorites in small towns in the eastern part of the state. They settled upon Steele of St. Johns who had always voted and acted with them, and who, if elected, could be depended upon to carry out their wishes in every respect. In order to do away with the competition of any person who might nominate an independent ticket, it was decided to put H. W. Stebbins of this city on the ticket for secretary and treasurer and thus secure the support of the local wheelmen. To further facilitate the matter, a man from this city was placed upon the nominating committee.

Snubbed Grand Rapids.
The balance of it was made up at the meeting in Detroit July 22 and composed of men who were calculated to sit down upon the Grand Rapids member very forcibly. They performed their missions. Out of the five members of the nominating committee, four of their own number for places upon the ticket. The one who got through out was the Grand Rapids man. The latter tried his best to get a man from here upon the board of representatives, but could not do it. The only approach to it was the nomination of a man from Grand Haven, whom the majority of local riders know too well. After all this the Grand Rapids member of the committee is supporting the "official ticket." The only inference which can be drawn is that he doesn't know he was humiliated. Steele is a member of the league barely a year and is not yet used to the "fine Italian" of certain wire-pullers. But these wire-pullers have over-reached themselves this time. The Diamond wheelmen of Detroit snubbed him by putting Steele and Richmond upon their ticket in addition to Stebbins and besides were very careful in selecting their members for the board of representatives. In the election of this ticket the whole state will be given a fair show, and this city will practically have three members upon the board, instead of none, as at present, or one as in the case of Steele's election. The local boys appreciate this fact and Gute already has a big majority of the votes sent in from this city. His list is growing larger daily and his election is almost a foregone conclusion.

City News in Brief.

Mrs. Charles Bodenstien died from consumption in Pasadena, California, Friday night. She was about 33 years of age.

Mrs. Bodenstien had been in ill health for some time and went to California in the hope that the climate would benefit her. Last week she grew rapidly worse, and in response to a telegram her husband started for Pasadena Thursday.

She died before he arrived. The remains will be brought to this city for burial and will probably reach here Friday. Besides her husband, Mrs. Bodenstien left two daughters, one 14 years old and the other 11.

Harry Hubbard, Dangerously Ill.
Harry Hubbard, the well-known musician, died at his home in his house on Lyon st. His old trouble, paralysis, has again seized him and little hope is entertained of his recovery. One year ago he was stricken down and was unconscious for many days. He recovered, however, and appeared in his usual health. A few days ago he was again attacked, but instead of becoming unconscious he has been temporarily insane. It is feared that his heart is also affected and that he will not recover.

Reward for a Deserter.
Sheriff Lamoreaux is entitled to $500 reward from the United States government for the arrest of William Ritter, a deserter from the army. The sheriff turned him over to the officers at Fort Wayne, but it will be about two months before he can get the reward. Ritter enlisted here one year ago under Captain Keil and was stationed at Fort Niagara, Kansas. He is said to have deserted from the fort last July and arrived in this city a few days ago. The sheriff arrested him on the street last Thursday.

MAPS OF THE STATE

How George De Haven's Fifty-two Souvenirs of Michigan

WERE HAILED BY THE "PEOPLE"

Prominent Railroad Men Ask for Information as to the Method of Manipulating C. &amp; W. M.

Some time ago the general passenger department of the C. &amp; W. M. and D. L. &amp; N. roads issued an advertisement in the shape of a pack of cards. On the back of the cards were maps of the state and the pack was designated as fifty-two maps of Michigan. They were freely distributed and a pack sent to the leading passenger agents of the country.

While George De Haven was looking over some correspondence a day or two ago, he found a bundle of clever acknowledgments from prominent railroad men. Here are some of the replies:

A. C. Michaelson wrote from the City of Mexico as follows:

"I beg to acknowledge with multitudes thanks the receipt from you of an envelope marked 'Personal,' inclosing some fifty-three colored, smooth cards, with edges nicely rounded. I find these cards have on one side a map of a portion of Michigan. On the reverse side are various characters. Some thirteen of them have a representation of that part of the human anatomy known as the heart. They are of a reddish color. Thirteen more are of a jet black aspect. The last two are heart-shaped, with a handle inverted. Thirteen (also black), I fancy were intended to represent clover leaves. A group of twelve red ones has on each a diamond-shaped symbol. With these four symbolic groups I find pictures of singular looking men and women. I presume they are types of the people among whom your roads run. Have lived quite a while in Mexico, and did fancy that the ancient Aztec idols represented about as ugly-looking people as could readily be conjured up by a nation shrouded in the gloom of ignorance and superstition, but your pictures of representative 'Michiganians' show that I was quite wrong. I am at a loss to know to what use to put these curious bits of glass and ornamental pasteboards. A gentleman from Arizona has an impression that they are used by artists in a game called 'Poke,' but as there was an uneasy twinkle in his eye as he explained matters to me I doubt his pretended knowledge. Michiganians, sages of charity and the like are continually going north, and I shall give one of your cards to each discreet traveler of this class."

How the Maps Work.
D. Wishart, general passenger agent of the Frisco line, said: "The fifty-two maps received are very pretty. I will take occasion some evening to investigate the opposite side with some of my friends."

Here is an excerpt from a letter from W. A. Thrall, general passenger agent of the Chicago & Northwestern: "A careful study of the excellent maps and cards distributed is likely to prove profitable—unless the fellow who is studying the backs of the maps on the other side of the table holds over."

Edson J. Weeks, general passenger agent of the New York Central, remarks: "Michigan is a great state. The maps are finely executed, but the designs on the backs bring up unpleasant recollections to my mind."

John L. Pratt, assistant secretary of the C. S. P. and K. C. showed his appreciation in this fashion: "I have not been so moved since a boy when my parents took a hand at it, as I was when I received your present of the great American Traveling Companion. I always was partial to history and geography and here you have it, and when wearied or bored with history, presto, and you are in the midst of a great story. My penula. Seriously, I hope we may some time meet and I may learn from him who conceived the idea, how the jokers work."

"I must confess that you have out-fancied Pharaoh," remarks L. S. Allen, assistant general passenger agent of the B. & O.

If the Other Fellow Has 'Em.
R. S. Hair of the C. S. P. & K. C. offered a few suggestions. "There is only one thing I think of that you might improve upon, if you devised some plan whereby I could tell by looking at the maps in the hands of the other fellow if he really had them or was simply bluffing with a Sob-tall fish."

H. B. McClellan of the Wabash is thankful as follows: "I take pleasure in acknowledging receipt of fifty-two pieces of paste board, and if I can manipulate them some evening so as to get three aces against three kings I will send you fifteen cents in stamps for the same."

R. Tenbrook of the Union Pacific searches for information such as this: "How close to his breast must a man hold these maps in order to keep his case well filled, and should they be used with a limit or no limit? The queens were always good luck to me when I used them, but I am a little out of practice now and want some advice."

J. M. Schryver of the B. & O. wrote as follows: "The maps are very fine, but are made in such shape that it would not be advisable to frame them. I hope the package sent me will turn out loaded, as I expect to use them at my geography class Saturday night."

Georg J. W. Burdick of the Delaware & Hudson Canal company: "I doubt if you have succeeded in lessening the difficulties of filling a Sob-tall fish."

George S. March of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul has a grievance and states it plainly: "It would certainly seem a great lack of courtesy on my part to doubt the veracity of your statement in any respect, and I am prepared to swear on a stack of Bibles, or dictionaries, that Michigan is a great state. If any man smaller than I dispute the fact, I will cause him to repent. But of chief interest to me are the calling cards enclosed with your communication. I used them for calling purposes very soon after their receipt, and to the best of my recollection, the call cost me about $1. I would like to have you advise me how to get this back. The fact that Michigan is a great state does not appear to help me in that direction."

RAILWAY TAXES.
Auditor General Turner Confers With Officials About Payment.

Auditor General Stanley W. Turner of Lansing has been in the city for the past two or three days conferring with the officials of the railroads about the payment of taxes. The railway taxes are due July 1, but time is always given the companies to meet the payment, and the tax accounts are seldom liquidated until the state needs the money. This year, owing to the hard times, the extension has been longer than usual.

Mr. Turner was in the city to notify the railway officials that the state would need the money in a short time and would expect payment. The (L. E. & L. road owes taxes to the amount of $40,000, and President Hughes declared the state could have a check for the full amount any day it was asked for.

About two-thirds of the taxes on the C. & W. M. system have been paid, but about $20,000 is still due, and will be paid promptly. While here Mr. Turner met W. H. Baldwin, Jr., general manager of the Flint & Iron Marquette road, and made arrangements for receiving the taxes of that road. Mr. Turner kept the object of his visit to the city very quiet under the supposition that an announcement of the fact that the railroads had not paid their taxes would create the impression that they are in hard straits financially. The railroads are not, however, and the officials manifest a willingness to pay their taxes at any time, the present extension being only the customary courtesy granted by them by the auditor general's department. All the taxes will be paid before January 1.

Mr. Bliven Retires.
After a business career of over six years the firm of Bliven & Allyn, dealers in fish, oysters, etc., have dissolved partnership, the former gentleman retiring and Mr. Allyn continuing the business at the old stand located on Canal street. The best of friendly relations exist between the two gentlemen and the change was made only after due and deliberate consideration, by all concerned. Oscar Allyn, who will hereafter conduct the business, is one of the best known and most popular young men in the city. He has hosts of friends and among the business concerns he is looked upon as a young man of sterling qualifications, energetic and thrifty. He will enlarge his stock of goods, add features that his patrons will appreciate and will use every honorable means to make his venture a lucrative one in every respect. Mr. Allyn's friends wish him unbounded success.

Sale Continued.
As there are yet left a number of choice tablets, we have decided to continue the sale another week at the following prices:

A Cold Wave Coming.
Try as we may, we cannot disguise the fact that winter will soon be with us, and with it coming a good pair of shoes is an absolute necessity. Where will you get them? Well, if you only inspect O'Hara's new stock you surely will buy them. In spite of the fact that the other dealers are making frantic efforts to attract trade, O'Hara's are doing a steady business. Why? Because they are selling the newest styles, best fitting, easiest feeling and longest wearing shoes at prices to suit the purchaser. If you want a pair of shoes of limited means will find it to their advantage to give them a trial, as they carry lines of goods that enables them to give satisfaction to workmen as well as to men of means.

Restaurant Reopened.
The restaurant at 30 North Ionia street, formerly run and operated by Smith & Marsh, will be reopened by Tom Gray and Robert Stolterhus Monday, October 30, under the name of Gray & Stolterhus. Mr. Gray is a well-known business man, having conducted a milk and creamery business here for more than seven years. These gentlemen announce that they will personally manage their business and thus assure satisfaction to everybody. Most of limited means will find it to their advantage to give them a trial, as they carry lines of goods that enables them to give satisfaction to workmen as well as to men of means.

Madam Godfrey (late of Chicago Decorative Art Association) wishes to inform the ladies of Grand Rapids that she will open a class in artistic needlework at Cor.
